

Throw a Blooming Great Tea Party in aid of Marie Curie

Why not get together with friends, family or colleagues between 20 and 29 June and help us care for more people living with a terminal illness and their families?

You could Throw a Blooming Great Tea Party or hold a bake-off to let people show off their skills, then enjoy the results. You can get your free fundraising pack at www.mariecurie.org.uk/teabreak with bunting, invitations, posters and recipes to download.

Almost 140 Marie Curie Nurses work in Wales, caring for around 2,300 terminally ill people each year in their homes, usually overnight. We also offer care for shorter periods of time, as well as care at very short notice in a crisis and we are expanding the services we offer in West Wales.

£20 pays for a Marie Curie Nurse to look after someone with a terminal illness for an hour in the comfort of their own homes. £180 will pay for a full nine-hour shift.

Register and get your free fundraising pack at www.mariecurie.org.uk/teabreak or contact Chris Roberts, West Wales fundraising office for more information and advice on 07595 089692 or Chris.Roberts@mariecurie.org.uk
